SUBJECT: NATIONAL SPACE COUNCIL WORKING GROUPS

At the last meeting of the PIRC regarding national space policy, several of you raised questions about the Space Council working group structure. We had originally proposed a permanent working group structure aimed at addressing a variety of inter-departmental policy issues. There was a brief discussion of this proposal and there was a suggestion made that an alternative approach might be to handle issues with "ad hoc" working groups established on an issue by issue basis; not unlike the way the Council works now. It was argued that the PIRC could function as a forum for setting an agenda for the Council and a mechanism for establishing working groups to address that agenda. I would like to hold a PIRC meeting in September to discuss these and other working group options. In preparation for this meeting, I ask that you provide to me a specific set of topics you believe the Council should address over the next 6-12 months that could serve as a basis for ad hoc working group structures. If you could get these to me by late August, we will schedule the meeting to discuss them in early September.
